EiD THEME DESiGN Creator / Seller Partner Terms

1. Scope and application

These terms govern applications, approved accounts, content submissions, distribution, revenue participation, statements, invoices and payouts. Registration is an application and does not guarantee approval, publication or sales.

2. Accurate trader information

The Partner must provide accurate and current identity, address, telephone, email, company, trade-register, tax and payout-account information and supporting evidence when reasonably requested. Business applicants confirm that their representative is authorised to act for the business.

3. Account and review

The Partner must protect account credentials and promptly report suspected misuse. EiD THEME DESiGN may verify information, request corrections, reject an application or suspend functions where information is incomplete, inconsistent, unlawful or presents a material security, sanctions, fraud or rights risk.

4. Ownership and distribution licence

The Partner retains ownership. For accepted content, the Partner grants EiD THEME DESiGN a non-exclusive, worldwide licence for the agreed term to host, reproduce, technically adapt, preview, market, distribute and sublicense the content only as needed for the selected stores and EiD THEME DESiGN services. Moral rights and mandatory statutory rights remain unaffected.

5. Content rules and AI transparency

The Rights and AI Declaration forms part of these terms. The Partner must not submit unlawful, infringing, deceptive, malicious, privacy-invasive or exploitative content and must provide accurate AI and third-party asset disclosures.

6. Revenue participation

Private creators receive 20% of Net Revenue. A business may request a whole percentage from 20% to 70%; 30% is recommended by default. A requested rate becomes binding only after written approval. Net Revenue means amounts actually received for the content less applicable taxes, store commissions and fees, refunds, chargebacks, reversals, currency-conversion costs and other documented transaction-specific deductions.

7. Statements and payouts

Statements identify the period, relevant Net Revenue, agreed percentage and Partner amount. Payout requires approval, completed verification, valid payment and tax information and the applicable minimum threshold. Disputed, reversed, unlawful or insufficiently documented amounts may be held while reasonably investigated.

8. Taxes and self-billing

The Partner remains responsible for registrations, declarations and taxes applicable to the

Partner Terms

Partner. Where separately agreed and legally permitted, EiD THEME DESiGN may issue self-billing invoices for a business Partner. The Partner must verify each document and promptly report incorrect details. A private-creator payout statement is not presented as a VAT invoice.

9. Notices, takedowns and cooperation

EiD THEME DESiGN may restrict or remove content following a store decision, credible rights notice, legal obligation or reasonable compliance concern. The Partner will receive available reasons and an opportunity to provide information where legally and operationally possible.

10. Termination without cause

Either party may terminate this Partner Agreement at any time, with immediate effect, by written notice. The Partner may also give notice through the protected account-closure function. Neither party is required to state a reason. Authentication and confirmation steps used to prevent an unauthorised closure do not limit this right. Termination ends future participation and the licence for new distribution, but does not cancel accrued payment rights, pending corrections, disputes or obligations that by their nature continue after termination.

11. Takedown and destruction within 30 days

Following termination, EiD THEME DESiGN will stop new publication, withdraw the Partner's designs from its active catalogue and take commercially reasonable steps to request removal from participating stores. No later than 30 calendar days after receipt of the termination notice, EiD THEME DESiGN will permanently delete or securely destroy all design binaries, source packages, preview files and other working copies under its direct control. Design metadata and cryptographic hashes, and contract, acceptance, settlement, invoice, tax, fraud-prevention and audit records, may be retained only where and for as long as required by law or reasonably necessary to establish, exercise or defend legal claims; retained records will not be used to resume distribution. Copies controlled solely by a third-party store or recipient, immutable security backups awaiting normal rotation, and material subject to a legal hold will be deleted or isolated at the earliest legally and technically permitted time.

12. Liability

Nothing excludes liability that cannot legally be excluded. Subject to mandatory law, neither party is liable for indirect or consequential loss, and EiD THEME DESiGN does not guarantee uninterrupted availability, acceptance, publication, compatibility or sales volume.

13. Changes, law and records

Material changes require a new version and renewed acceptance before they bind future activity. Dutch law applies, subject to mandatory protections that cannot be waived. Accepted document versions and completed financial records are retained for evidence, accounting, fraud prevention and legal obligations.
